A COLLEGE FOR WOMEN AND MEN

Story Book Theatre

The Actors' Laboratory Theatre of Avila, under the direction of Jim Assad, will present STORY THEATRE, May 6, 7 and 8.

Unlike much of the current crop of plays, STORY THEATRE focuses all the attention on the actor — he has to work at top speed miming, jumping from hot dialogue to cool comment and dashing from scene to scene on a curtainless stage. It is an approach which gives theatre back to the actor and the audience. The play, often prodded by a rock-folk combo, sometimes veers into lunatic humor and fancy.

STORY BOOK THEATRE, on stage through Saturday, will open May 6, in Avila's experimental theatre, O'Reilly Hall. Curtain-time is 8:30 o'clock. Admission: $2 and $1. Reservations: 942-3204.

One reviewer of Story Theatre in New York, said, "The show is for people who have given up Broadway shows."

Mandy, Mary, Marilyn, Kathy.

St. Louis was the site chosen for a February meeting of the Midwest Model United Nations (MMUN). Avila (and Luxembourg) was represented by five students. In addition to the head delegate, Mandy Schmidt, there were Marilyn McKinzie, Mary Soptic, Kathy Thibideau, and Kathy D'Agostino (not pictured).

As representatives of the country of Luxembourg, Avila students heard and discussed world-wide problems. These related to Northern Ireland, Indochina, Ireland, Rhodesia, Middle East, Chinese Representation, and World Ecology. Resolutions concerning these world problems were voted on.

Attendance at a Model United Nations meeting gives students a fine opportunity to study the problems and inner-workings of the United Nations and to have dialogue with students from other colleges and universities who attended.
